

MINES AND MINING.

The Champion Mill, in Deer Lodge County, Nearly Ready for Work.

Capt. Mills Tells of His Experience With the Southern Cross Mine.

Helena Men Bond the Lucky Baldwin—The Poorman, Cora and Other Properties.

At the Cosmopolitan hotel there is on exhibition several samples of ore from the Fourth of July mine, with a notice attached telling the ore assayed 1,500 ounces per ton. The ore is fine looking and carries a fair percentage of lead.

But little credence is taken in the report circulated yesterday that 50,000 shares of this stock sold at 33 1/2 cents. Sam Silverman says there is none of it for sale whatsoever and every share sold brought at least 50 cents.

Capt. Mills reports that the new twenty-stamp mill on the Champion mine in the Oro Fino district will soon be ready for work. The company has stopped shipping ore to outside works. About 3,000 tons, he says, are on the dump awaiting treatment and it will all average 35 ounces to the ton. The ore shipped away was first-class and ranged in value from fifty to seventy-five ounces. It now requires too much sorting and handling to find a large quantity that will run this high. By waiting a month the company can make a good deal more money by treating its own ore. Pending the starting of the mill operations have been curtailed at the mine. Only a few men are now employed keeping the pumps going and doing some development. When he left Deer Lodge Tuesday the superintendent reported to him that a new and valuable discovery had been made in the lower workings.

Captain Mills says that the mineral agitation has had a depressing effect on the stock, but he does not fear that anything serious to the company will result.

Speaking of the Southern Cross, Captain Mills said he owned that property for about two years, and if he had thought it was the rich property it has proved itself to be he would not have let go of it. At the time he secured it, Salton Cameron and Jim Whitlatch owned it. They became indebted to him; he sued them, obtained judgment and bought the mine in at sheriff's sale. He settled with the owners afterwards, however, and when the company was organized took his pay partly in stock, and he is glad he did. He said he could have had the whole amount in money, but what stock he received is worth more to-day than the whole amount of his claim against the original owners. Captain Mills being one of the first settlers of Deer Lodge county can always be found at the front when he is called upon to aid in any legitimate enterprise. He is interested in a number of mining properties and while the fruits therefrom have not come to him yet, he sees his way clear to a fortune from his interests in the Champion mine, which promises to be the champion bullion producer of the Oro Fino district.

A Helena company, composed of Michael Burns, C. A. Donnelly, T. H. Ward and John Horsky have taken a four month's bond on the Lady Fisher and Lucky Baldwin claims, situated a mile and a half from McDonald's toll gate. The bond is for $5,000. The claims so far are only prospects, but make a good showing, $40 per ton free milling gold ore having been taken from them. A contract for a 25-foot shaft on the Lucky Baldwin has been let, work to begin immediately.

Boulder Age: The Ruby mine in the Lowland district continues to ship ore to Helena. A. H. Foster has two six-horse teams hauling ore from the mine to the depot at Calvin. They load two cars a week at present, but are at work fixing the road in such shape that they will be soon loading three cars a week. On the road there is a very steep hill and down it the teams bring about sixteen thousand pounds each, but after reaching the bottom of the hill two trips to the depot must be made to take the ore which was brought down hill at one load.

Patrick Clark, superintendent of the Poorman mine in the Coeur d'Alenes, is in Butte and informed a reporter of the Inter Mountain that everything is lovely at the Poorman, and the mine and concentrator are in active operation. A shut-down was rendered necessary last month, owing to a smelter combination. The shut-down was of short duration, however, and everything is now running at full blast. All the other companies are also in full operation. Mr. Clark is much disappointed, of course, at Windom's lead decision and says the effect of it can already be noticed in the falling of lead to $3.80. Previous to the decision and in the face of an expected favorable ruling lead sold at $4.00, $4.05. Mr. Clark says that the disappointment of Coeur d'Alene lead miners is very great as they had expected a favorable decision.

Mining Review: The Cora mine will be developed extensively this winter, the company having enough money in the treasury to work a force of men for some time. Ore in sight will be stopped, and that on dump will be sorted ready for shipment in the spring. The outcroppings of this lead can be traced for over 4,000 feet, and experts who have examined it pronounce it a true fissure vein. By next spring, it is thought, the Cora will be paying a steady dividend, and judging from the present indications, is likely to be one of the leading mines of Montana. It is located 10 miles east of Helena, and about ten miles from the smelter.

A Coming Attraction.

The Thalia Dramatic Club of this city, assisted by the best German talent, intend producing on the evening of November 3d Holter's famous melodrama, Leonore the Todtenbraut, which is considered one of the finest productions of the German stage, for the benefit of their leader, H. Blume. Lovers of the melodramatic art will no doubt avert themselves of this opportunity of hearing this popular and gifted club. The cast includes Mesdames Blume, Kenck, Miss Engel and Messrs. Blume, Koch, Kahn, Yaeger and Teichert, who will each ably fill their appointed parts. The merits of Mr. and Mrs. Blume, Mrs. Kenck and Miss Engel as actors and pillars of the Thalia club are too well known to need any further comment. The beautiful rendition of Messrs. Koch, Yaeger, Kahn and Teichert in their respective parts of Deborah a few months ago is still fresh in the memory of many and without doubt will acquit themselves great credit. The orchestra on this occasion will consist of fifteen of our best musicians.

He is Here. C. Griebel, representing the Val, Blatz, celebrated Milwaukee beer, is in the city. The Blatz beer is becoming very popular in this city, and Mr. Jake Switzer, the Helena agent of this establishment, says that it is fast taking the place of all other brands. During the past week he has received seven car loads of the excellent beverage.

The sale of goods at cost will close Saturday, W. G. BAILEY JEWELRY COMPANY.

HE PLAYED PEEK-A-BOO.

How a Naughty Man Trifled at the Salvation Army Meeting.

In Judge Sanders' court yesterday M. Higgins was on trial for creating a disturbance at the Salvation Army barracks on Monday night. The trial proved quite interesting for the large audience who had gathered. Anything in which the Army figures draws out a large crowd, especially when the show is free. Attorney Botkin appeared in behalf of the city, and Col. Casey held up the other end. The case simmered down to a struggle between the Capt. Keeffe faction and the Capt. Ramsdale-Harris faction. The complaint charged that the defendant disturbed the peace and quiet of the meeting by shuffling his feet across the floor, moving benches placing his hat on the head of others, placing a cigar in his mouth playing peek-a-boo with Captain Ramsdale, and doing other mischievous things. Higgins occupied a seat in what is termed Capt. Keeffe's corner, as her adherents still attend the meetings, but hold themselves aloof from the other side. Capt. Keeffe was not at the trial; she is sick in bed. Her followers, however, were there and testified that what the defendant did caused no disturbance at the meeting, and it did not disturb them. Capt. Ramsdale's followers took the other view of course. Frank Chandler, who it was shown is the authorized booster of the barracks, ejected Higgins from the premises. Private Buller, when on the witness stand, embraced the opportunity to tell the world that he loved the Salvation army better than anything on earth. When Captain Ramsdale took the stand she testified that Higgins played peek-a-boo at her while she was on the platform. The captain is a vivacious young blonde. When asked by Mr. Casey in what this peek-a-boo business consisted, she colored up instantly and said he would bob behind a chair and peek at her through the back of it.

"Why didn't you turn your head away?" asked Mr. Casey. The crowd laughed aloud, the captain blushed, the austere judge, over whose countenance a smile crept, rapped for order, and the question went unanswered.

All the evidence went to show that Higgins was a nuisance at the meeting and he was fined $10. An appeal to the district court was taken.
